

FACT SHEET ON TEPSA

THE TRANS EUROPEAN POLICY STUDIES ASSOCIATION

WHAT IS TEPSA

The Trans European Policy Studies Association (TEPSA) is the first transeuropean research network. The network was established in 1974 as an international non-profit association under Belgian law. It consists of leading research institutes in the field of European affairs throughout Europe, with an office in Brussels. TEPSA's aim is to provide a high quality research on European integration based on a triple "A" approach: Analysis, Assessment and Advice in order to stimulate discussion on policies and political options for Europe. TEPSA and its member institutes have engaged in a two-fold approach providing expertise on EU policies and politics combined with a vast experience in organising and conducting EU wide research, training and networks.

TEPSA STRUCTURE

TEPSA currently consists of 36 member institutes and associate members located in 33 countries, both EU member states and candidate countries. TEPSA continues to expand its membership via a careful selection procedure. The TEPSA Board is the main organ in charge of the selection process, while it is the TEPSA General Assembly that holds the final decision-making powers. The association is governed by its members via a general management organ (TEPSA General Assembly), which elects the administration organ (TEPSA Board) for a period of three years. The chairperson of the TEPSA Board is Professor Michael Kaeding, chair holder of the Jean Monnet Chair Ad Personam at the University of Duisburg-Essen. The Secretary General, responsible for the daily management of the association, is Professor Jaap de Zwaan, Lecturer in European Integration at The Hague University for Applied Sciences and an emeritus Professor of European Union Law at the Erasmus University Rotterdam. The Brussels office of TEPSA employs two to four staff members. More information on TEPSA's membership can be found in the annex of this document.

TEPSA'S OBJECTIVES

The statutes define TEPSA's goal as "to study or to organise research on problems relating to the development of European integration, based on human rights and democracy, to propose solutions, and to promote their taking into consideration by institutions, both private and public, at national or Community level, and to diffuse the results of its work." TEPSA has encouraged democratic participation of citizens at EU level since the 1970s, focusing on developing their understanding of EU policy-making. With its decentralised approach, TEPSA combines the strengths of its members and enriches the results of their work. TEPSA exemplifies the 'bottom-up' approach to European governance. TEPSA and its member institutes are a link between the EU and national level governments and the citizens. TEPSA aims at stimulating discussion on policies and political options by organising research projects, conferences and facilitating interaction between the research and policy-making communities and between citizens from different member states. TEPSA's activities are undertaken in close cooperation with partners ranging from TEPSA member institutes from all over Europe to EU institutions, national governments, universities and civil society.

TEPSA'S FUNDING

TEPSA has received financial support by the European Commission throughout the past years, co-financed by TEPSA membership fees and contributions from other foundations. Besides, TEPSA has been receiving financial contributions linked to other EU-projects such as the FEUTURE, PADEMIA and PONT projects and the briefings and studies for the European Parliament. In the past years TEPSA's annual budget was between € 400 000 and € 500 000. The TEPSA accounts are rigorously accounted and audited by an external accountant and auditor under the supervision of the TEPSA Treasurer.

TEPSA'S ACTIVITIES

TEPSA organises a wide range of activities including conferences, roundtables, workshops, study visits, trainings, summer school, guest lectures etc. in order to provide a stable framework for high quality research on European integration. Below can be found the different activities' categories TEPSA organises.

TEPSA Pre-Presidency Conferences: The TEPSA Pre-Presidency Conference is TEPSA's flagship event. The conference gathers the TEPSA network and takes place in the country that will take up the Council Presidency, one or several months before the respective semester will start. The event is a key opportunity for leading politicians, academics, civil society and media representatives to come together and discuss the priorities of the upcoming presidency.

Thematic conferences: A wide range of thematic conferences have been organised by TEPSA in cooperation with TEPSA member institutes and other partners. These conferences bring together experts from academic circles, think tanks, civil servants and policy-makers to discuss topics on the EU agenda, mainly focusing on four pillars: citizenship and democracy; institutional challenges and the future of the EU; enlargement, neighbourhood policy and Europe in the world.

TEPSA'S PROJECTS

TEPSA is involved in several projects, either as project leader or member of a consortium. Below is an overview of TEPSA's current projects.

PADEMIA project: PADEMIA is an EU funded project to establish a Europe-wide and sustainable network of 56 academics from 31 countries to promote research and teaching in reaction to growing European demands to study parliamentary democracy in Europe. PADEMIA seeks to enhance discussion among students, junior and senior researchers, also in exchange with stakeholders, on how to deal with the new challenges parliaments and citizens across Europe are facing today. TEPSA is responsible for the organisation of the PADEMIA Annual Conferences and workshops.

PONT project: In September 2015 TEPSA started a new project focused on "Professional Training on EU Affairs", PONT. This EU funded Jean Monnet project enhances teaching and training activities on EU subjects by providing a bridge connecting young academics and EU practitioners (incl. policy-makers and think tankers). It does so by offering high-quality training on EU governance to improve the employability of a target audience of 120 Master and PhD students from various disciplines seeking a job in EU affairs. PONT fosters activities aimed at analysing EU subjects and their teaching by three key activities (Working Europe Seminars; Career Skills Trainings; and TEPSA Pre-Presidency Conferences), flanked by innovative educational tools such as webcasts with EU professionals.

FEUTURE project: TEPSA is part of a consortium that recently won a Horizon2020 research project entitled "The Future of EU-Turkey Relations. Mapping Dynamics and Testing Scenarios" (FEUTURE). The FEUTURE project is undertaken by a consortium of 14 experienced universities and think tanks from the EU, Turkey and the neighbourhood. It sets out to explore fully different options for further EU-Turkey cooperation in the next decade, including analysis of the challenges and opportunities connected with further integration of Turkey with the EU. TEPSA is co-leader of the Dissemination Work Package of the FEUTURE project.

BRIEFINGS AND STUDIES FOR THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT

TEPSA cooperates with the European Parliament in providing external expertise to several EP committees. In the period 2010-2013, TEPSA held two EP framework contracts and delivered 21 studies, briefings and workshops for the Security and Defense Subcommittee and 14 studies, briefings and workshops on multilateralism for the Foreign Affairs Committee. TEPSA also delivered studies for other EP committees including Human Rights and Constitutional Affairs. The latter was the result of cooperation between TEPSA, its members and Paris-based think tank Notre Europe for a study on the Democratic Control in the member states of the European Council and the Euro Zone Summits. TEPSA has recently won two new framework contracts with the European Parliament for providing external expertise for the EP's Human Rights Committee and the Development Committee. These framework contracts have entered into force in September 2014.

TEPSA NEWSLETTER AND WEBSITE

The TEPSA bi-monthly Newsletter and the TEPSA website provide with information of all events and publications of TEPSA and its members. The newsletter lists all activities organised by TEPSA and its 36 members, provides links to reports on their past activities, and highlights all publications of TEPSA and its members. The address of the TEPSA website is <http://www.TEPSA.eu>.
