

ON-LINE DiCE REGIONAL ASSEMBLY: CROATIA

Differentiated Integration in the European Union: Impacts for the regional and local governments in Croatia

WEDNESDAY, 1 JUNE 2022 10:00 - 12:00

DiCE Regional Assemblies are small expert workshops gathering representatives from the regional and local governments of 7 EU member states, which aim to discuss the different policy scenarios and recommendations that have been developed by the DiCE project cluster and to reflect on their potential implications for policy-making at the sub-national level of governance. The DiCE Regional Assembly in Croatia is organised by the Trans European Policy Studies Association (TEPSA) in cooperation with its member institute from Croatia the Institute for Development and International Relations (IRMO) Zagreb.

Within the online workshop TEPSA researchers will present main findings of their projects which address the following issues:

- How do these projects define differentiation?
- What were the main project conclusions?
- What are the scenarios for future EU differentiation?
- What are the key policy recommendations?

During discussion the local moderator will lead an open discussion with regional representatives covering the following aspects:

- Understanding of differentiated integration
- Impact of differentiated integration on the regions
- Desirability of differentiated integration scenarios (benefits and risks)
- Impact of differentiated integration
