

Co-funded by the Europe for Citizens Programme of the European Union

On 13 December 2018, TEPSA and its Macedonian member the Faculty of Law Iustinianus Primus – University Ss. Cyril and Methodius jointly organised a conference on “Law, justice and politics in the contemporary democratic context” in the framework of the Europe for Citizens programme of the EU. The conference addressed several issues of great relevance for European politics, such as: treatment of migrants and potential asylum seekers in transit through Croatia, thirty years’ was and the idea of United Europe, the Balkans in transition. The conference was attended by more than 90 participants.