

CALL FOR APPLICATIONS

With the support of the Europe for Citizens (Efc) Programme, the Trans European Policy Studies Association (TEPSA) is organising a student contest on the theme of “solidarity in the EU”, open to high-school, undergraduate, and graduate students from the TEPSA network and beyond.

WHY SOLIDARITY?

What is solidarity about? How should it be defined? What concrete forms of solidarity can be established between EU citizens and Member States? What could or should be the role of the European Union in fostering solidarity?

These are crucial questions in the debate on the future of the European Union. For this reason, TEPSA has decided to contribute to this debate by giving the possibility to young Europeans to make their voice heard and to share their insights on this important theme.

SUBMISSION REQUIREMENTS

The contest is open to high-school, undergraduate, and graduate students:

- Interested graduate students should submit a short policy brief (1000-1500 words), reflecting on the theme of solidarity in the EU. The policy brief should contain concrete recommendations to policymakers in the specific policy area chosen (see below). View our guidelines for more information.

- Interested undergraduate and high-school students should submit a short essay (1500-2000 words) on the same theme. We recommend you consult the latest APA guidelines, which include standards to format your paper and your references.

Students should provide an original definition of solidarity and choose a specific policy area where to apply it.

Some examples of topics are provided below – however, students are not bound to these proposals and new ideas and topics are welcome:

- Migration to the EU: Solidarity as the way forward?
- The economic divide between Southern and Northern Europe: Can solidarity help overcome it?
- Clashes between Western and Eastern Member States: How to reconcile different interests and goals?
- Cities and countryside: Do the EU townsfolk forget villagers?
- Climate change and environment protection: Ensuring intergenerational solidarity;
- EU enlargement and relations with the neighbouring countries: Solidarity beyond the EU borders?
- EU defence and new security threats: Is solidarity among the Member States the solution?
- How to build an innovative and technologically advanced Europe? More solidarity of knowledge?

You can have a look at the essays of last year's winners here.

APPLICATION PROCEDURE

The paper should be submitted no later than Sunday 5 April 2020 (midnight) to pol.vila@tepsa.eu with "Student contest_LAST NAME" as the subject of the email. For any question on the contest, please send an e-mail to pol.vila@tepsa.eu.

PRIZES & RECOGNITION

The best papers will be published by TEPSA and three winning authors (one in each category: high-school, undergraduate, and graduate) will be invited to participate free of charge in one of TEPSA's EU@Work seminars taking place in Brussels in July and October 2020¹, with travel and accommodation costs covered² (up until €200).

¹ Unfortunately, undergraduate students cannot participate in the Seminars.

² TEPSA will only reimburse the travel and accommodation costs of participants coming from the eligible countries under the EfC programme: all member states of the EU; Albania; Bosnia and Herzegovina; Kosovo; Montenegro; North Macedonia; and Serbia.

EU@Work seminars are 4-day seminars on EU affairs, gathering diverse groups of young Europeans and providing them with first-hand insights on the functioning of the EU through lectures by leading experts and visits to EU institutions.

The EU@Work Seminar for undergraduate students will provide participants with in-depth and hands-on knowledge of the EU institutional architecture and policymaking and will involve study visits to the main EU institutions and other Brussels-based organisations. The EU@Work Seminar for undergraduate students will take place in July 2020.

The EU@Work Seminar for MA students and graduates will focus on the EU and climate action and will provide participants with insights from academics, practitioners, EU officials, and civil society representatives. It will entail study visits to the main EU institutions and other Brussels-based organisations involved in the protection of the environment and putting a halt on climate change. The EU@Work Seminar for MA students and graduates will take place in October 2020.

ABOUT TEPSA

The Trans European Policy Studies Association (TEPSA) was established in 1974 as the first trans-national research network in the field of EU affairs. It comprises leading research institutes throughout Europe, with an office in Brussels. Its aim is to provide high quality research on European integration in order to stimulate discussion on policies and political options for Europe. This is achieved by interaction between the European and national institutions as well as the academic and research community. More information on our activities can be found at www.tepsa.eu
